Hill AFB “Santa Brigade” Brings Christmas Magic to Utah Foster Care

Murray & Clearfield, Utah | December 17 | 9:00 AM

The airmen and women of Hill Air Force Base will once again partner with Utah Foster Care for the annual Santa Brigade, delivering over 600 Christmas gifts to children in foster care from Draper to Logan.

On Tuesday, December 17 at 9:00 a.m., airmen will arrive at Utah Foster Care offices in Murray and Clearfield to pick up large purple gift bags filled with toys and teen items before delivering them directly to foster families. Many of these service members donate their own vacation time and gas to make this tradition possible.

Media will have the opportunity to film:

- Airmen arriving in uniform
- A welcoming statement from Utah Foster Care CEO Nikki MacKay (Murray location only)
- The powerful visual of service members filing in to grab the purple gift bags
- A media-friendly foster family on site as their children open gifts at the office, next to a beautifully decorated holiday tree, to capture the true spirit of the season

Select media may also follow airmen on deliveries, with the clear understanding that no foster families may be recorded or identified at private homes to protect confidentiality.

“This is one of the most meaningful and visually powerful holiday moments of the year,” said Gina Phillips, Director of Communications at Utah Foster Care. “The combination of service and the pure joy on these children’s faces is something you don’t forget.”
